

Biography of Patrick A. Roberts

Patrick Roberts is a professor at National-Louis University in Chicago. He is a member of the Department of Educational Foundations and Inquiry. Roberts is also the standing director of the Curriculum and Social Inquiry Doctoral Program. His background includes museum education in Bosnia and the Western Balkans. Roberts earned a doctorate degree in curriculum and instruction, and a masters in English. Not only is he a professor he is a well known author, some of his books include, Fallout Boy (Ever After)(2014), Thunder and Lightning: We're all leaves in a Hurricane(2014), Love me when I'm gone: The true Story of Love, Life, and Loss for a Green Beret post 9/11 (2012), and The Darkest Secrets (The Dark Witch) (2014).

Link to his university website

<http://cedu.niu.edu/lepf/chair/index.shtml>

National Louis University's Dr. Patrick Roberts presents his book, "Give 'Em Soul, Richard!", a biography of historic Chicago deejay Richard Stamz.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=H5tHmTlqdHQ>

National Louis University's Patrick Roberts, Ph.D., associate professor in the National College of Education, hosted a digital video conference from the U.S. State Department to the U.S. Embassy in Sarajevo with Bosnian museum educators, curators and education professionals on how to build museum education in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=acBBiBiR6B0>

College of Education Welcomes New Department Chairs - NIU - College of Education. (n.d.). College of Education Welcomes New Department Chairs - NIU - College of Education. Retrieved May 20, 2014, from <http://www.cedu.niu.edu/news/2013/newchairs.shtml>