PREFACE

The idea for the present work arose out of discussions on bibliography between members of the Department of Far Eastern History and the Faculty of Oriental Studies of the Australian National University. Advice and information were given by many members of the Department and the Faculty, and also by the librarians of the National Library of Australia as well as by those of the University. It would be invidious to make a selection from these generous helpers. But we owe a special debt to Dr. Wang Ling 王鈴 for his interest and encouragement.

We thank also Mr. Kanaka Toshikazu 金中利和 for assistance with Japanese materials; Mr. C. Kiriloff for checking the Russian sections of the bibliography; and Mr. Lu Ta-wei 魯大維, who wrote the majority of the Chinese characters.

Finally, we should like to thank Mrs. Doris Craft for typing and retyping the manuscript and final draft.

We hope in the near future to publish further volumes, not concerned with items on China and the Far East as such, but only with bibliographies and catalogues of such items. The aim is simple: to provide a guide to the numerous and ever increasing number of bibliographies of all kinds on China, many of which are also of value for other parts of the Far East.
