

What: Models & Strategies for a Produce Distribution Plan

Keywords: produce distribution, model, food system, racial & ethnic dynamics agriculture, Asian Americans, Community Assistantship Program (CAP), farming, Hmong, produce, retail / sales opportunities, immigrants, local/regional food, marketing, infrastructure, competition

When/Where: 5/X/2007

Who: Nicole Yarbrough, through CURA's Community Assistantship Program (CAP) Minnesota Food Association (maybe helpful to similar organizations looking to assist small farms in accessing the larger market)

Why: To give MN Food Association recommendations to assist immigrant produce farmers as they compete with larger producers/distributors.

How: Clearly structured with bullet points covering advantages and challenges of numerous areas of / players in the food system. Seems very thorough and ends with clear recommendations.
