What: Peter Shea interview with Sunny Ruthchild

Keywords: local food, organic food, stewardship, farm-to-school sustainability, agroecology, produce/production, distribution, networks, sales opportunities, health / healthy food, economic challenges

When/Where: 7/16/2012

Who: Peter Shea interviews Sunny Ruthchild for the Bat of Minerva regional cable program. Viewers of the Bat of Minerva, interested public or community food activists (moreso than academics necessarily)

Why:

How: Firsthand account from an organic farmer about the challenges (and successes) of farming. She has a diverse educational background (up to a doctorate in many different areas). Gives some practical details of her farming techniques. I think it's an approachable way to start a conversation if a group of people watched it.
