PREFACE.

This Pamphlet is part III of Iwe Ede Gẹ̀si Olohun Iyo series, and the ready demands with which Part I and Part II have been received made me compile Part III on a higher grade than the two previous editions, and is intended for advanced pupils.

The Pamphlet consists of 8 Lessons, and deals with (1) Law of Gravitation, (2) The Earth, (3) The Moon, (4) The Sun, (5) Outlines of History of England, (6) Notable Men in History, (7) Advice on the Acquisition of English Language, and (8) Countries of the world with their Capitals.

There are 381 Sentences in all, apart from 65 Countries of the World with their Capitals, and they are intended to be committed to memory since they contain statements of facts.

The selection of important events and prominent persons in history cannot fail to be of assistance to pupils preparing for examination, and taking History as one of the Subjects.

I am indebted to the authors of the following works, Popular Science Educator, Carter's Outlines of English History, and Mappa Mundi by John Waddington, Ltd.

February, 1937.
